A SMALL ADVANCE

that there was any material change for the better yesterday in trading operations. It is true that a stronger tone was developed during the course of the day, and some of the markets showed a dispetition to respond more freely to favorable conditions, but, as a whole, the final results were not put to the expectations of tradets, who were unable to make manh of an impression upon a values where the higher-priced grain was concerned, and nearly none at all in the cheaper grains, their responses, in fact, being very feelic.
